Antinuclear Antibodies Contemporary Techniques And Clinical Application To Connective Tissue Diseases
The novel opens with Aunt Polly scouring the house in search of her nephew, Tom Sawyer. She finds him in the closet, discovers that his hands are covered with jam, and prepares to give him a whipping. Tom cries out theatrically, "Look behind you!" and when Aunt Polly turns, Tom escapes over the fence. After Tom is gone, Aunt Polly reflects sadly on Tom's mischief and how she lets him get away with too much.

Tom comes home at supper and tells his mother all about his adventures. During supper, Aunt Polly tells Tom to clean the floor and the outside of the house tomorrow. Tom then finds a wrapper in his pocket, a remnant of the tobacca he has been smoking. Tom's half-brother, Joe, also has the same wrapper. Tom finds another wrapper and eventually throws the wrappers all the way home.

When Tom returns home in the evening, Aunt Polly is waiting for him. She notices his dirty clothes and resolves to make him work the next day, a Saturday, as punishment.

On Saturday morning, Aunt Polly sends Tom out to whitewash the fence. Joe passes by, and Tom asks Joe to get him to do some of the whitewashing in return for a "trade alley," a kind of cigarette. Joe almost agrees, but Aunt Polly appears and chases Joe off, leaving Tom alone with his tasks.

Tom comes home at supper time, and his mother is furious. She asks him what he has done all day, and Tom tells her about his adventures. During supper, Aunt Polly asks Tom if he has ever been skipping school that afternoon and what he did. Tom lies about his activities and says he was busy and shows her his broken collar, which is still a reminder of his guilt. Aunt Polly is satisfied, and the meal continues in silence.

Tom goes out of the house immediately after supper, and Aunt Polly watches him as he starts to skip school. While wandering the streets of St. Petersburg, Tom notices a group of men working on the river. Tom and the new arrival of the town’s doctor, Dr. Garve, eventually join them, and Tom receives the news of some new house.
