The novel opens with Aunt Polly scouring the house in search of her nephew, Tom Sawyer. She finds him in the closet, discovers that his hands are covered with jam, and prepares to give him a whipping. Tom cries out theatrically, “Look behind you!” and when Aunt Polly turns, Tom escapes over the fence. After Tom is gone, Aunt Polly reflects sadly on Tom’s naughtiness and how she lets him get away with too much.

Tom comes home at suppertime with dirty hands and a red beard and wears his wet clothes and is very cross and sulky. He tells Aunt Polly about his adventure of the afternoon and even vies her with his clothes being wet and soiled. Aunt Polly is satisfied.

Tom goes out of the house immediately to visit Uncle Jack, a widower andargent. Tom and the new arrival are soon all the way down the street and eventually cross the river of the way home.

When he returns home in the evening, Tom finds Aunt Polly waiting for him. She notices his dirty clothes and resolves to make him work the next day, a Saturday, as punishment.

On Saturday morning, Aunt Polly sends Tom out to whitewash the fence. His pages by, and Tom tries to get him to do some of the whitewashing in return for a “white alley,” a kind of snub. Aunt Polly agrees, but Aunt Polly appears and chases him off, leaving Tom alone with his task.
