Contract And Property In Early Modern China
The novel opens with Aunt Polly scrounging the house in search of her nephew, Tom Sawyer. She finds him in the closet, discovers that his hands are covered with jam, and prepares to give him a whipping. Tom cries out theatrically, “Look behind you!” and when Aunt Polly turns, Tom escapes over the fence. After Tom is gone, Aunt Polly reflects wistfully on Tom’s escapades and how she lets him get away with too much.

Tom comes home at supper. His mother is in a terrible state about his adventures. During supper, Aunt Polly tells the family that Tom has been skipped school that afternoon and went rowsing in his canoe. His clothes are still wet from the rain, and Tom’s half-brother, Sid, is sulking in the corner. Aunt Polly is satisfied, but Sid, Tom’s half-brother, wants to go out and rows his own canoe. Tom$, having the usual pride in himself to disguise his guilt, goes out and rows his own canoe.

When he returns home in the evening, Tom finds Aunt Polly waiting for him. She notices his dirty clothes and resolves to make him work the next day, a Saturday, as punishment.

On the Saturday morning, Aunt Polly sends Tom out to whitewash the fence. Jim passes by, and Tom tries to get Jim to do some of the whitewashing in return for a “white alley,” a kind of muslin. Jim almost agrees, but Aunt Polly appears and chases him off, leaving Tom alone with his talents.

Tom comes home at suppertime. His mother has talked to him about his adventures. During supper, Aunt Polly insists that he must be removed from school that afternoon and sent to work. Tom's friend Huckleberry Finn, who has stolen a horse, has been discovered and the horse is still heavily branded and agitated. Tom is very worried about this. Aunt Polly is satisfied. Tom goes out of the house to play. He is angry and sad. Tom has overheard his aunt and uncle talking about how he is a "bad boy". Tom decides to get revenge on Mr. Muffett, the schoolmaster, who has been his teacher for several years.
