Discourses On Strauss Revelation And Reason In Leo Strauss And His Critical Study Of Machiavelli
The novel opens with Aunt Polly scowling the house in search of her nephew, Tom Sawyer. She finds him in the closet, discovers that his hands are covered with jam, and prepares to give him a whipping. Tom cries out theatrically, "Look behind you!" and when Aunt Polly turns, Tom escapes over the fence. After Tom is gone, Aunt Polly reflects sadly on Tom's mischief and how she lets him get away with too much.

Tom comes home at supper and is not surprised about his adventures. During supper, Aunt Polly asks Tom if he has been skipped school that afternoon and what evidence he has to show that his father is still away from home. Tom's half-brother, Sid, tells Tom to disguise himself to discourage his aunt. Tom goes out of the house and strolls through the streets of St. Petersburg. He is overawed and agog with excitement and eventually choses the artworks all the way home.

When he returns home in the evening, Tom finds Aunt Polly waiting for him. She notices his dirtied clothes and resolves to make him work the next day, a Saturday, as punishment.

On Saturday morning, Aunt Polly sends Tom out to whitewash the fence. Jim goes by, and Tom tries to get him to do some of the whitewashing in return for a "white alley," a kind of marble. Jim almost agrees, but Aunt Polly appears and chases him off, leaving Tom alone with his tasks.
