The novel opens with Aunt Polly scouring the house in search of her nephew, Tom Sawyer. She finds him in the closet, discovers that his hands are covered with jam, and prepares to give him a whipping. Tom cries out theatrically, “Look behind you!” and when Aunt Polly turns, Tom escapes over the fence. After Tom is gone, Aunt Polly reflects wistfully on Tom’s mischief and how she lets him get away with too much.

Tom goes out of the house to raider the river. He runs into his friend Huckleberry Finn and they both discuss Tom’s recent adventures. Tom has been skipping school, and Huckleberry is surprised to hear about Tom’s latest escapade—stealing a horse and switching it with a donkey. Tom tells Huckleberry about the time he tried to raise a crowd and eventually chased the process all the way home.

When he returns home in the evening, Tom finds Aunt Polly waiting for him. She notices his dirtied clothes and resolves to make him work the next day, Saturday, as punishment.

On Saturday morning, Aunt Polly sends Tom out to whitewash the fence. Jim passes by, and Tom tries to get him to do some of the whitewashing in return for a “white alley,” a kind of名誉. Jim almost agrees, but Aunt Polly appears and chases him off, leaving Tom alone with his tasks.

Tom comes home at suppertime, his clothes all dirty and his face smeared with blackberry jam, and tells a tall tale about his adventures. During supper, Aunt Polly asks if Tom has been skipping school that afternoon and what nonsense he has been up to. Tom lies about his escapades. By the time Tom finishes eating, Aunt Polly is satisfied. She區域s Tom to wash the dishes and eventualy chases the newsboys all the way home.
