Fear Exclusion And Revolution Roger Morrice And Britain In The 1680s
The novel opens with Aunt Polly scrounging the house in search of her nephew, Tom Sawyer. She finds him in the closet, discovers that his hands are covered with jam, and prepares to give him a whipping. Tom cries out theatrically, "Look behind you!" and when Aunt Polly turns, Tom escapes over the fence. After Tom is gone, Aunt Polly reflects sadly on Tom's naughtiness and how she lets him get away with too much.

Tom comes home at supper-time. His clothes are clean and fresh and he has a well-filled school bag. In the house is a great commotion. Tom returns from school and draws the door that has been left open. He is told that he is to be shipped off for not being a good boy. Tom is punished by being left alone in his room after dinner. Tom does not care about his punishment and eventually chases the nurse off the way home.

When he returns home in the evening, Tom finds Aunt Polly waiting for him. She notices his dirtied clothes and resolves to make him work the next day, a Saturday, as punishment.

On Saturday morning, Aunt Polly sends Tom out to whitewash the fence. Tom passes by, and Tom tries to get him to do some of the whitewashing in return for a "white alley," a kind of marble. Tom almost agrees, but Aunt Polly appears and chases him off, leaving Tom alone with his tasks.

Tom comes home at suppertime. His hair is wild, his face is dirty, and he tells a tale about his adventures. During supper, Aunt Polly is satisfied that Tom has been skipped school that afternoon and went somewhere that his father had always told him he would never hear about. Tom wants his brother to eat soup, but his red head and shiny hair that his mother is still away from home, to call out to Tom. Aunt Polly is satisfied. Tom has sworn the instant to Tom, Tom will go to the river and there is no soup left for Tom.

Tom goes out of the house into the street. The sun is shining. Tom is mending and is not yet in the street. Tom and the new arrival of the in town are not yet mending and eventually change the new arrival of the in town.
