Foundations Of Eu Food Law And Policy Ten Years Of The European Food Safety Authority
The novel opens with Aunt Polly scouring the house in search of her nephew, Tom Sawyer. She finds him in the closet, discovers that his hands are covered with jam, and prepares to give him a whipping. Tom cries out theatrically, “Look behind you!” and when Aunt Polly turns, Tom escapes over the fence. After Tom is gone, Aunt Polly reflects ruefully on Tom’s mischief and how she lets him get away with too much.

Tom comes home at suppertime, dirty and dirty-faced. He has an appetite for the second helping of meat loaf, but this is impossible for Aunt Polly to provide. Tom has skipped school that afternoon and gone to the wharf to watch the boats and men. He has not had any dinner, but Aunt Polly is satisfied. At last Tom’s half-brother, Huck, arrives. Tom has warned his friend to disguise his face when they are alone so they will not be stopped school that afternoon. It is almost time for Tom to attend school that afternoon, and he begins to regret his absence. Tom and Huck go off to the woods behind the school to escape the punishment and eventually choose the avenues of the white house.

When he returns home in the evening, Tom finds Aunt Polly waiting for him. She notices his dirtied clothes and resolves to make him work the next day, a Saturday, as punishment.

On Saturday morning, Aunt Polly sends Tom out to wash the fence. Jim passes by, and Tom tries to get him to do some of the whitewashing in return for a “white alley,” a kind of mustard. Jim almost agrees, but Aunt Polly appears and chases him off, leaving Tom alone with his tasks.
