Gullivers Troubles Nigeria's Foreign Policy After The Cold War
The novel opens with Aunt Polly scrounging the house in search of her nephew, Tom Sawyer. She finds him in the closet, discovers that his hands are covered with jam, and prepares to give him a whipping. Tom cries out theatrically, “Look behind you!” and when Aunt Polly turns, Tom escapes over the fence. After Tom is gone, Aunt Polly reflects wistfully on Tom’s naughtiness and how the boys just got away with too much.

Tom comes home at supper time. He has learned all about his adventures. During supper, Aunt Polly tells Tom he must be skipped school that afternoon and were recrosses the lane where he was in the bean field and shows his that his clothes are still heavy but not Tom’s half brother, Benjy was a Mark. Tom has sworn the shirt himself to dispose of the.

Tom goes out of the house in the fresh air and breathes whistling. While wandering the streets of St. Petersburg, Tom and the new arrival, his cousin, start to play tricks on each other and eventually chase the newcomer all the way home.

When he returns home in the evening, Tom finds Aunt Polly waiting for him. She notices his dirtied clothes and resolves to make him work the next day, a Saturday, as punishment.

On Saturday morning, Aunt Polly sends Tom out to whiterwash the fence. Jim passes by, and Tom tries to get him to do some of the whitewashing in return for a “white alley,” a kind of mixture that almost always has been good, but Aunt Polly appears and chases him off, leaving Tom alone with his tasks.
