The novel opens with Aunt Polly scouring the house in search of her nephew, Tom Sawyer. She finds him in the closet, discovers that his hands are covered with jam, and prepares to give him a whipping. Tom cries out theatrically, "Look behind you!" and when Aunt Polly turns, Tom escapes over the fence. After Tom is gone, Aunt Polly reflects sadly on Tom's mischief and how she lets him get away with too much.

Tom comes home at supper, and Aunt Polly is satisfied. She has heard that Tom has been skipping school that afternoon and playing marbles. She asks him if his cologne is still 'safe' from the babies, but he can't say. Tom's half-brothers, Ben and Mark, have discovered the aunt and asked to dispose of something. Tom goes out of the house to sell his watch and looks for something to buy. While wandering the streets of St. Petersburg, Tom and the new arrival cross paths and eventually choose the new escort for the way home.

When he returns home in the evening, Tom finds Aunt Polly waiting for him. She notices his dirty clothes and resolves to make him work the next day, a Saturday, as punishment.

On Saturday morning, Aunt Polly sends Tom out to whitewash the fence. Tom spares by, and Tom tries to get him to do some of the whitewashing in return for a "white alley," a kind of marble. He almost agrees, but Aunt Polly appears and tells him off, leaving Tom alone with his work.
The novel opens with Aunt Polly scouring the house in search of her nephew, Tom Sawyer. She finds him in the closet, discovers that his bands are crossed with jazz, and prepares to give him a whipping. Tom cries out theatrically, "Look behind you!" and when Aunt Polly turns, Tom escapes over the fence. After Tom is gone, Aunt Polly reflects ruefully on Tom's mischief and how she lets him get away with too much.

Tom comes home at suppertime. He appears solemn, but Aunt Polly has found out that he has been skipping school that afternoon and using the money he had saved to buy tobacco. When she asks him why he has been skipping school, Tom claims that he has been "fishing". Aunt Polly is satisfied.

Tom and the new arrival of a little girl named Mary work on the farm and eventually the new arrival comes all the way home.
