The novel opens with Aunt Polly scouring the house in search of her nephews, Tom Sawyer. She finds him in the closet, discovers that his hands are covered with jam, and prepares to give him a whipping. Tom cries out theatrically, “Look behind you!” and when Aunt Polly turns, Tom escapes over the fence. After Tom is gone, Aunt Polly reflects sadly on Tom’s mischief and how she lets him get away with too much.

Tom comes home at supper and tells his aunt about his adventures. During supper, Aunt Polly decides to send him to the study to be whipped. While Aunt Polly is satisfied, Tom’s half-brother, Ben, is concerned. Tom assures Ben that he will be able to handle the whipping.

Tom and the new arrival, Huckleberry Finn, explore the woods surrounding the house. They come across a hidden cache of treasure and eventually chase the green-coated man away from the house.

When he returns home in the evening, Tom finds Aunt Polly waiting for him. She notices his dirtied clothes and resolves to make him work the next day, a Saturday, as punishment.

On Saturday morning, Aunt Polly sends Tom out to whitewash the fence. Tom passes by, and Tom tries to get him to do some of the whitewashing in return for a “white alley,” a kind ofumble. Aunt Polly is not interested, but Aunt Polly appears and chases him off, leaving Tom alone with his tasks.

Tom comes home at supper time but nothing has been said about his adventures. During supper, Aunt Polly asks if Tom is going to be skipped school that afternoon and what evidence there is that his collar is still around his neck, but fiat. Tom’s half-brother, Sid, has told him that the collar is still around his neck but Tom assures the aunt that he disposed of it.

Tom goes out of the house with a sorry look, and wanders the streets of St. Petersburg, whistling. While wandering, he sees two men engaged in what appears to be a very serious argument and eventually choose the newcomer all the way home.

Huna is a Hawaiian word adopted by Max Freedom Long (1890–1971) in 1936 to describe his theory of metaphysics. Long cited what he believed to be the spiritual practices of ancient Hawaiian kahunas (priests) as inspiration; however, the system is his invention, with roots in New Thought and Theosophy, rather than in traditional Hawaiian beliefs.
