The novel opens with Aunt Polly scouring the house in search of her nephew, Tom Sawyer. She finds him in the closet, discovers that his hands are covered with jam, and prepares to give him a whipping. Tom cries out theatrically, "Look behind you!" and when Aunt Polly turns, Tom escapes over the fence. After Tom is gone, Aunt Polly reflects wistfully on Tom's naughtiness and how she lets him get away with too much.

Tom comes home at supper-time with a black eye and a swollen cheek muscle. She asks him what he has been about, and he lies that he was playing marbles. She punishes him and sends him to bed. The next morning, Tom and the大街 arrives at school, and the schoolmaster asks Tom about his adventure. Tom says he was playing marbles, and Aunt Polly is satisfied. She sells Tom's new shoes and gives him a second-hand pair.

Tom goes out of the house in search of a new adventure. He finds the town deserted and quiet. He sees Aunt Polly's horse and carriage standing outside her house. When he returns home in the evening, Tom finds Aunt Polly waiting for him. She notices his dirty clothes and resolves to make him work the next day, a Saturday, as punishment.

On Saturday morning, Aunt Polly sends Tom out to whitewash the fence. Tom passes by, and Tom tries to get him to do some of the whitewashing in return for a "white alley," a kind of saddle. Tom almost agrees, but Aunt Polly appears and chases him off, leaving Tom alone with his task.

On Saturday morning, Aunt Polly sends Tom out to whitewash the fence. Jim passes by, and Tom tries to get him to do some of the whitewashing in return for a “white alley,” a kind of marble. Jim almost agrees, but Aunt Polly appears and chases him off, leaving Tom alone with his task.
A broken-off catheter tip indicates the risk for an embolus. The tip of the catheter can break off, thus creating an embolus. To limit the movement of the embolus, the nurse should apply a tourniquet high on the extremity where the IV line was located and notify the provider immediately.

The nurse notes that a client's intravenous (IV) site is cool, pale, and swollen, and the solution is not infusing. The nurse concludes that which complication has occurred?
