Mechanisms Of Action Of Antiepileptic Drugs
The novel opens with Aunt Polly scouring the house in search of her nephew, Tom Sawyer. She finds him in the closet, discovers that his hands are covered with jam, and prepares to give him a whipping. Tom cries out theatrically, “Look behind you!” and when Aunt Polly turns, Tom escapes over the fence. After Tom is gone, Aunt Polly reflects sadly on Tom’s mischief and how she lets him get away with too much.

Tom comes home at supper. He’s still dressed in his sooty clothes and has a black eye. Tom’s mother is not happy about his adventures. During supper, Aunt Polly tells Tom she’s going to skip school that afternoon and go réviser his lessons. Tom’s mother is not happy with this, but Tom’s half-brother, Sid, is delighted. Tom has sworn the boy to secrecy and wants to use him to disguise his absence.

Tom sees the streets of St. Petersburg, where the roads are muddy and slushy, and the children are playing in the rain. He sees the barber shop, the blacksmith’s shop, and eventually he sees the store where all the boys go.

When he returns home in the evening, Tom finds Aunt Polly waiting for him. She notices his dirtied clothes and resolves to make him work the next day, a Saturday, as punishment.

On Saturday morning, Aunt Polly sends Tom out to whitewash the fence. Jim passes by, and Tom tries to get him to do some of the whitewashing in return for a “whale shelf.” A kind of mantle, Tom almost agrees, but Aunt Polly appears and chases him off, leaving Tom alone with his tasks.
