The novel opens with Aunt Polly scouring the house in search of her nephew, Tom Sawyer. She finds him in the closet, discovers that his hands are covered in jam, and prepares to give him a whipping. Tom cries out theatrically, “Look behind you!” and when Aunt Polly turns, Tom escapes over the fence. After Tom is gone, Aunt Polly reflects wistfully on Tom’s mischief and how she lets him get away with too much.

Tom comes home at suppertime. He has a tale of adventure to tell. During the day, Tom and Huck have been out on an adventure. They had sneaked away from school to explore the river. They found a buried treasure and were the envy of their classmates. Aunt Polly is satisfied. She had been worried about Tom, but she is happy to see him back safe and sound.

Tom and Huck go out to find their treasure again. While wandering the streets of St. Petersburg, they see a boat with a cuckoo clock in it. Tom and Huck are fascinated by the clock and eventually choose to purchase it for the whole way home.

When he returns home in the evening, Tom finds Aunt Polly waiting for him. She notices his dirty clothes and resolves to make him work the next day, a Saturday, as punishment.

On Saturday morning, Aunt Polly sends Tom out to whitewash the fence. Jim passes by, and Tom tries to get him to do some of the whitewashing instead for a “white alley,” a kind of promise. Jim almost agrees, but Aunt Polly appears and chases him off, leaving Tom alone with his task.
