Molecular And Evolutionary Cytogenetics Of Domestic Animals
The novel opens with Aunt Polly scouring the house in search of her nephew, Tom Sawyer. She finds him in the closet, discovers that his hands are covered with jam, and prepares to give him a whipping. Tom cries out theatrically, “Look behind you!” and when Aunt Polly turns, Tom escapes over the fence. After Tom is gone, Aunt Polly reflects warmly on Tom’s mischievous behavior and how she lets him get away with too much.

Tom comes home at supper time to find his sister Becky has informed all about his adventures. During supper, Aunt Polly tells Tom he will be skipped school that afternoon and sent upstairs to learn his lessons. But first, Tom’s half-brother Sid comes to beg for Tom’s precious gold that he has hidden. Tom, having had his fill, crafts a device to disguise his gold, which he dubs “the Wedgwood.”

Tom goes out of the house to steal a pig that has been sent to town for Sir David Barnaby, the new master. As he hides in the bushes, he is spotted by Sid, who also tries to steal the pig. Tom is captured by Policeman Mark. Tom has sworn the boy to secrecy but has not warned Sid of his involvement. The following day, Tom is taken to the courthouse and eventually chased away from the town square.

When he returns home in the evening, Tom finds Aunt Polly waiting for him. She notices his dirtied clothes and resolves to make him work the next day, a Saturday, as punishment.

On Saturday morning, Aunt Polly makes Tom out to whitewash the fence. Tom passes by, and Tom tries to get him to do some of the whitewashing in return for a “guinea,” a kind of unit for the joke. Tom’s host agrees, but Aunt Polly appears and chases him off, leaving Tom alone with his tasks.

Tom comes home at sunset, telling his aunt he has skipped school that afternoon and spent most of the day in the woods. His collar is still green from the paint that Tom used and he shows her that his coat is still wet from the rain. Aunt Polly is satisfied.

Tom and the new arrival of a pet dog, a watchdog, Whiskers, go for a spin. They are welcomed and accepted. Tom runs off to the woods.

Molecular And Evolutionary Cytogenetics Of Domestic Animals

Cytogenetics is a branch of genetics that is concerned with how the chromosomes relate to cell behaviour, particularly to their behaviour during mitosis and meiosis. Techniques used include karyotyping, analysis of G-banded chromosomes, other cytogenetic banding techniques, as well as molecular cytogenetics such as fluorescent in situ hybridization (FISH) and comparative genomic hybridization...

Evolutionary physiology is the study of physiological evolution, which is to say, the manner in which the functional characteristics of individuals in a population of organisms have responded to selection across multiple generations during the history of the population. It is a subdiscipline of both physiology and evolutionary biology. Practitioners in this field come from a variety of...

Evidence of evolution includes biogeography, the fossil record, taxonomy, comparative anatomy, comparative embyrology, and molecular biology. Today, the most useful and accurate evidence comes...

Note: Human TP63 was first isolated from human total genomic DNA by screening with an 800 bp PCR fragment obtained from probing with primers designed to anneal to regions in contiguous exons of p53 and p73, including the intervening introns (Yang et al., 1998). The resulting clones recovered from SK-N-MC neuroepithelioma total genomic DNA encoded proteins with two different N termini (TA and ...
