The novel opens with Aunt Polly scouring the house in search of her nephew, Tom Sawyer. She finds him in the closet, discovers that his hands are covered with jam, and prepares to give him a whipping. Tom cries out theatrically, “Look behind you!” and when Aunt Polly turns, Tom escapes over the fence. After Tom is gone, Aunt Polly reflects wistfully on Tom’s mischief and how she lets him get away with too much.

Tom comes home at supper time. He tells her a lie about his adventures. During supper, Aunt Polly is satisfied, and the next morning she is as surprised as usual to learn that Tom has been skipped school that afternoon and spent the entire day in the woods.

Tom and the new arrival of his cousin Huckleberry Finn cause a stir in town. While wandering the streets of St. Petersburg, Tom finds a lost watch, which he returns to its owner, Mr. Thatcher. On Saturday afternoon, Aunt Polly sends Tom out to whitewash the fence. Tom tries to get his work done quickly, but Aunt Polly appears and chastises him, leaving Tom alone with his tasks.

Tom comes home at supper-time, now clad in a new suit. He has been skipping school that afternoon and went to see a movie. He has brought his pocketbook home and shows her that his pocket is still empty. He tells her that he is now serious and will no longer be a truant. Aunt Polly is satisfied. Tom goes out of the house to enjoy his new outfit. While wandering the streets of St. Petersburg, he discovers a fashionable and elegant dressmaker and eventually comes to an old woman's house.

When he returns home in the evening, Tom finds Aunt Polly waiting for him. She notices his dirtied clothes and resolves to make him work the next day, a Saturday, as punishment.

On Saturday morning, Aunt Polly makes Tom out to whitewash the fence. Jim passes by, and Tom tries to get him to do some of the whitewashing in return for a "shoe ale." A kind of snifter. Jim almost agrees, but Aunt Polly appears and chases him off, leaving Tom alone with his task.
