Reforming The World Trading System Legitimacy Efficiency And Democratic Governance International Economic Law Series
The novel opens with Aunt Polly scouring the house in search of her nephew, Tom Sawyer. She finds him in the closet, discovers that his hands are covered in jam, and prepares to give him a whipping. Tom cries out theatrically, “Look behind you!” and when Aunt Polly turns, Tom escapes over the fence. After Tom is gone, Aunt Polly reflects sadly on Tom’s mishap and how she lets him get away with too much.

Tom comes home at supper time. He is quite excited about his adventures. During supper, Aunt Polly asks Tom if he will be skipping school that afternoon and going instead to the local whistling. While wandering the streets of St. Petersburg, Tom and his friends come across a dog that is chained to a post. Tom sees the opportunity and eventually chases the newcomer all the way home.

When he returns home in the evening, Tom finds Aunt Polly waiting for him. She notices his dirtied clothes and resolves to make him work the next day, a Saturday, as punishment.

On Saturday morning, Aunt Polly sends Tom out to whiterun the fence. Jim passes by, and Tom tries to get him to do some of the white running in return for a “white alley,” a kind of mistress. Jim almost agrees, but Aunt Polly appears and chases him off, leaving Tom alone with his tasks.

Tom comes home at suppertime; he has been skipping school that morning and went over to the boot store and bought shoes that his father is still aware he has. But still, Tom’s half-brother, Ben, is satisfied, and Aunt Polly is satisfied, at the sight of Tom’s new shoes.

Tom goes out of the house to listen to some whistling. While wandering down the streets of St. Petersburg, Tom and the new arrival, a sailor, share an adventure and eventually chase the newcomer all the way home.
