The novel opens with Aunt Polly scouring the house in search of her nephew, Tom Sawyer. She finds him in the closet, discovers that his hands are covered with jam, and prepares to give him a whipping. Tom cries out theatrically, “Look behind you!” and when Aunt Polly turns, Tom escapes over the fence. After Tom is gone, Aunt Polly reflects angrily on Tom’s mischief and how she lets him get away with too much.

Tom comes home at suppertime. He has not been to school all day, and Aunt Polly has heard about his adventures. During supper, Aunt Polly tells Tom that he will be dropped school that afternoon and must stay at home to clean the back and burn his that old coffer is still set in front of the jum. Tom comes home at supper, his face red and stained with jam, but without a mark. His mother asks him what adventures he had that day. Tom tells her he was not at school and sleeps in the afternoon and went fishing. His mother is pleased, but Tom’s half-brother, Joe, tells Aunt Polly that Tom was out to look for the missing gold. Aunt Polly is satisfied, and Tom leaves to continue his search. Tom has sworn to himself to disgrace his mother.
