The novel opens with Aunt Polly scouring the house in search of her nephew, Tom Sawyer. She finds him in the closet, discovers that his hands are covered with ink, and prepares to give him a whipping. Tom cries out theatrically, "Look behind you!" and when Aunt Polly turns, Tom escapes over the fence. After Tom is gone, Aunt Polly reflects sadly on Tom's misbehavior and how the boys got away with too much.

Tom comes home at suppertime. He has thoroughly enjoyed his adventures. During supper, Aunt Polly tells Tom that he will not be skipped school that afternoon and must return home to get his clothes. Tom's half-brother, Sid, is also sent home to get his clothes, as Aunt Polly is satisfied.

Tom goes out of the house into the yard. Aunt Polly is worried and anxious. Tom and the new arrival are both a surprise to Aunt Polly, and eventually cleans the newcomer all the way home.

When he returns home in the evening, Tom finds Aunt Polly waiting for him. She notices his dirty clothes and resolves to make him work the next day, a Saturday, as punishment.

On Saturday morning, Aunt Polly sends Tom out to whitewash the fence. Sam passes by, and Tom tries to get him to do some of the whitewashing for a "white alley," a kind of money. Sam almost agrees, but Aunt Polly appears and chases him off, leaving Tom alone with his task.
