The novel opens with Aunt Polly scowling the house in search of her nephew, Tom Sawyer. She finds him in the closet, discovers that his hands are covered with jam, and prepares to give him a whipping. Tom cries out theatrically, “Look behind you!” and when Aunt Polly turns, Tom escapes over the fence. After Tom is gone, Aunt Polly reflects morosely on Tom's mischief and how she lets him get away with too much.

Tom comes home at suppertime, dressed in his old frock coat, much the worse for wear, and his mother tells him he must be skipped school that afternoon and sent instead to the barber shop to have his hair cut and shoes laced that his collar is still awry and his boots unpolished.

Tom and the new arrival of his half-brother, Sid, have always been at odds. When Tom扑克, Aunt Polly is satisfied.

Tom goes out of the house into the street and begins to whistle. A young man with a dog and a hat comes by, and Tom tries to get him to do some of the whitewashing in return for a “white alley,” a kind of mustard. Tom almost agrees, but Aunt Polly appears and chases him off, leaving Tom alone with his thoughts.

When he returns home in the evening, Tom finds Aunt Polly waiting for him. She notices his dirty clothes and resolves to make him work the next day, a Saturday, as punishment.
