The novel opens with Aunt Polly scrounging the house in search of her nephew, Tom Sawyer. She finds him in the closet, discovers that his hands are covered with jam, and prepares to give him a whipping. Tom cries out theatrically. “Look behind you!” and when Aunt Polly turns, Tom escapes over the fence. After Tom is gone, Aunt Polly reflects morosely on Tom’s misconduct and how she lets him get away with too much.

Tom comes home at suppertime and tells Aunt Polly that he has been at school all day and has not been skipping school that afternoon. Aunt Polly is exasperated. She has had enough of Tom’s bad behavior and does not believe him. Tom asks Aunt Polly if he might go out with his old brother, Sid, to play marbles. Aunt Polly grants permission, but on the condition that Tom does his chores before he leaves. Tom takes the news and goes to work.

Tom goes out of the house into a doleful street. He is whistling. While wandering the streets of St. Prance’s Ferry, Tom meets Huckleberry Finn. Tom and the new arrival chat as Tom’s conscience chokes the newcomer all the way home.

When he returns home in the evening, Tom finds Aunt Polly waiting for him. She notices his dirtied clothes and resolves to make him work the next day, a Saturday, as punishment.

On Saturday morning, Aunt Polly sends Tom out to whitewash the fence. Jim passes by, and Tom lies to get him to do some of the whitewashing in return for a “white alley,” a kind of mustard. Jim almost agrees, but Aunt Polly appears and chases him off, leaving Tom alone with his tasks.
