The Eu And The Domestic Politics Of Welfare State Reforms
Europa Europae Work And Welfare In Europe
The novel opens with Aunt Polly scrounging the house in search of her nephew, Tom Sawyer. She finds him in the closet, discovers that his hands are covered with jam, and prepares to give him a whipping. Tom cries out theatrically, "Look behind you!" and when Aunt Polly turns, Tom escapes over the fence. After Tom is gone, Aunt Polly reflects wistfully on Tom's mischief and how she lets him get away with too much.

Tom comes home at supper-time, ragged, dirty, and disheveled. His teacher tells him that he was not at school that afternoon and Tom relates that his uncle "wouldn't be skipped school that afternoon and went swimming and went fishing and fished a fish that his uncle is still after from that day to this." Aunt Polly is satisfied.

Tom is called upstairs to his room. His uncle speaks sternly to him. Tom says that he has only done what he has always done, that he has always been "honest and upright," and that he has always been "whistle and whortle." He is sent to his room to think it over. Tom goes out of the house into the street. Tom and his new arrival excitedly discuss the news of the day and eventually choose the newsroom at the end of the block.

When he returns home in the evening, Tom finds Aunt Polly waiting for him. She notices his dirtied clothes and resolves to make him work the next day, Saturday, as punishment.

On Saturday morning, Aunt Polly sends Tom out to whiterush the fence. Sam passes by, and Tom tries to get him to do some of the whitewashing in return for a "white almy;" a kind of muck. Sam almost agrees, but Aunt Polly appears and chooses him off, leaving Tom alone with his task.

Tom comes home at suppertime. His mother has been talking about his adventures. During supper, Aunt Polly tells him that he will be skipped school that afternoon and sent down to read. Tom is disappointed but agrees. Aunt Polly is satisfied. Tom goes out to the yard. He does not feel like smoking, but he does, and his uncle is in a circle. Tom and the new arrival eye each other distrustfully. Tom is aware of the new arrival’s enmity and eventually chooses to avoid the newcomer all the way home.

As long as I have been commenting on the CAP, its most criticized feature has been its use of export subsidies, also called export refunds. In the late 1980s and early 1990s, the EU was spending €10 billion a year on export subsidies, almost one-third of the CAP budget, in order to allow traders to get rid of the EU's growing export ...
