The Executive Unbound After The Madisonian R Lic
the executive unbound after the madisonian rule
The novel opens with Aunt Polly scouring the house in search of her nephew, Tom Sawyer. She finds him in the closet, discovers that his hands are covered with jam, and prepares to give him a whipping. Tom cries out theatrically, "Look behind you!" and when Aunt Polly turns, Tom escapes over the fence. After Tom is gone, Aunt Polly reflects sadly on Tom's mischief and how she lets him get away with too much.

Tom comes home at supper. He has a black eye, but no one talks about it. During supper, Aunt Polly mentions that Tom is not to be skipped school that afternoon and even mentions that his collar is still away from the house, but Tom's half-brother, Ben, has assured the aunt himself to dispose his belongings. Tom goes out of the house, looking about, but no one had talked about his adventures. While wandering the streets of St. Petersburg, Tom meets his friend, Huck Finn, who has been a wanderer and vagrant for a long time and eventually chooses to return home.

When he returns home in the evening, Tom finds Aunt Polly waiting for him. She notices his dirty clothes and resolves to make him work the next day, a Saturday, as punishment.

On Saturday morning, Aunt Polly sends Tom out to whitewash the fence. Jim passes by, and Tom tries to get him to do some of the whitewashing in return for a "whale's belly," a kind of unstable fox almost gone, but Aunt Polly appears and chases him off, leaving Tom alone with his toil.
