The novel opens with Aunt Polly scouring the house in search of her nephew, Tom Sawyer. She finds him in the closet, discovers that his hands are covered with jam, and prepares to give him a whipping. Tom cries out theatrically. “Look behind you!” and when Aunt Polly turns, Tom escapes over the fence. After Tom is gone, Aunt Polly reflects wistfully on Tom’s mischief and how she lets him get away with too much.

Tom comes home from school with a solemn expression. He has been stood up by Becky Thatcher. His mind is preoccupied with his work in the forge. He has a job for his younger brother, Sid, to help him repair a fence. Tom is determined to finish the fence before the sun sets. While working, Aunt Polly is satisfied. The shade is on the other side of the house, and she is enjoying the quiet.

Tom and the new arrival of Aunt Polly to the house mark a new chapter in his life. He is determined to keep his end at the forge and eventually closes the new arrivals of the way home.

When he returns home in the evening, Tom finds Aunt Polly waiting for him. She notices his dirty clothes and resolves to make him work the next day, a Saturday, as punishment.

On Saturday morning, Aunt Polly sends Tom out to whitewash the fence. Jim passes by, and Tom asks to get him to do some of the whitewashing in return for a “white alley,” a kind of mustard. Jim almost agrees, but Aunt Polly appears and chased him off, leaving Tom alone with his tasks.

After Tom is gone, Aunt Polly reflects sadly on Tom's naughtiness and how she lets him get away with too much.

Tom comes home at supper and is surprised to hear that he will not be skipped school that afternoon and even receives a warning about being tardy. He is also informed that his coat is still away from his house and that his father is still away from his house, but that, Tom's half-brother, Joe Harper has no coat and is still away from his house.

Tom goes out of the house in a whirlwind of rage. While wandering the streets of St. Petersburg, Tom meets Huckleberry Finn and eventually chooses the newsman all the way home.
