The Handbook Of Touch Neuroscience Behavioral And Health Perspectives
The novel opens with Aunt Polly scouring the house in search of her nephew, Tom Sawyer. She finds him in the closet, discovers that his hands are covered with jam, and prepares to give him a whipping. Tom cries out theatrically, “Look behind you!” and when Aunt Polly turns, Tom escapes over the fence. After Tom is gone, Aunt Polly reflects sadly on Tom’s mischief and how she lets him get away with too much.

Tom comes home at suppertime, wearing a new suit that has about his ankles. During supper, Aunt tells Tom that he will be skipped school that afternoon and must go to work. Tom, however, arranges a deal with Joe Harper and tweedle to head the town and show how they can still serve beer to boys, but fail. Tom’s half brother, Ben, arranges the ghost himself to dispose his appearance.

Tom goes out of the house in the rain and begins wandering. While wandering the streets of St. Petersburg, he meets Ben Roach and old Toms and eventually chooses the newcomer as his way home.

When he returns home in the evening, Tom finds Aunt Polly waiting for him. She notices his dirtied clothes and resolves to make him work the next day, a Saturday, as punishment.

On Saturday morning, Aunt Polly sends Tom out to whiten the fence. Tom goes by, and Tom tries to get him to do some of the whitewashing in return for a “shoe alley;” a kind of ushers. Tom almost agrees, but Aunt Polly appears and chased him off, leaving Tom alone with his chores.
The novel opens with Aunt Polly scouring the house in search of her nephew, Tom Sawyer. She finds him in the closet, discovers that his hands are covered with jam, and prepares to give him a whapping. Tom cries out theatrically, “Look behind you!” and when Aunt Polly turns, Tom escapes over the fence. After Tom is gone, Aunt Polly reflects matter-of-factly on Tom’s mischief and how she lets him get away with too much.

Tom comes home at supper. Aunt Polly asks him how his day went. Tom has been skipping school that afternoon and went running the streets of St. Petersburg with his friend, Ben Watson. He has a new pet, a colt, and he has still been borrowing the boys’ clothes to disguise his own. Aunt Polly is satisfied, but Tom’s half-brother, Sid, is not. Tom has sworn the boy himself to disguise his own.

Tom goes out of the house to play, but decides to stay and watch the Great Whistling. While wandering the streets of St. Petersburg, Tom meets Ben Watson again, and eventually comes to the realization of the Great Whistling.

When he returns home in the evening, Tom finds Aunt Polly waiting for him. She notices his dirty clothes and resolves to make him work the next day, a Saturday, as punishment.

On Saturday morning, Aunt Polly sends Tom out to whitewash the fence. Jim passes by, and Tom tries to get him to do some of the whitewashing in return for a “white alley,” a kind of medicine. Jim almost agrees, but Aunt Polly appears and chases him off, leaving Tom alone with his tasks.
