The Math We Need To Know And Do In Grades 6-9 Concepts Skills Standards And Assessments
The novel opens with Aunt Polly scouring the house in search of her nephew, Tom Sawyer. She finds him in the closet, discovers that his hands are covered with jam, and prepares to give him a whipping. Tom cries out theatrically, “Look behind you!” and when Aunt Polly turns, Tom escapes over the fence. After Tom is gone, Aunt Polly reflects sourly on Tom’s mischief and how she lets him get away with too much.

Tom comes home at supper. He looks thievish and sly. He has a hunch about his adventures. During supper, Aunt Polly tells Tom he will have to skip school that afternoon and write examination and eventually choose the examinations at the end of the week. Aunt Polly is satisfied, but Tom’s half-brother, Huck, has warned the boy himself to disguise his absence from school.

Tom goes out of the house in a hurry. He goes down the street of St. Petersburg. Tom and the new arrival of his aunt can be seen to be in a jolly mood and eventually choose the examinations of the whole house.

When he returns home in the evening, Tom finds Aunt Polly waiting for him. She notices his dirtied clothes and resolves to make him work the next day, a Saturday, as punishment.

On Saturday morning, Aunt Polly sends Tom out to whitewash the fence. She passes by, and Tom tries to get him to do some of the whitewashing in return for a “white alley,” a kind of marble. Tom almost agrees, but Aunt Polly appears and chases him off, leaving Tom alone with his task.

Tom comes home at suppertime with his hands well washed and his clothes well brushed. He had told Aunt Polly a good story about his adventures. During supper, Aunt Polly asks Tom about his day. He tells her he was skips school that afternoon and went down to the river to play. He is still down there now, fishing. Aunt Polly is satisfied. Tom has learned the hard way that his actions have consequences.

Tom goes out of the house in the evening, his clothes shining and his hair well combed. The streets are alive with excitement and anticipation. Tom and the men from the river are all talking about the new arrival in town—a handsome young man who has just arrived in the city. Tom is curious and decides to follow the new man to see what he’s all about.
