The Paradox Of Professionalism Lawyers And The Possibility Of Justice
The novel opens with Aunt Polly searching the house in search of her nephew, Tom Sawyer. She finds him in the closet, discovers that his hands are covered with jam, and prepares to give him a whipping. Tom cries out theatrically, "Look behind you!" and when Aunt Polly turns, Tom escapes over the fence. After Tom is gone, Aunt Polly reflects ruefully on Tom's mischievous and how she lets him get away with too much.

Tom comes home at supper-time. He is dressed in his Sunday clothes and has about his adventures. During supper, Aunt Polly asks him if he had been to school that afternoon and what he learned. Tom tells her that he had been skipping school that afternoon and she is shocked and shows him that his clothes are still worn from his earlier activities. Aunt Polly is satisfied. Tom then goes out of the house to play. While wandering the streets of St. Petersburg, Tom sees a man who is whistling. While whistling, Tom and the new arrival chat and eventually choose the newcomers as the way home.

When he returns home in the evening, Tom finds Aunt Polly waiting for him. She notices his dirtied clothes and resolves to make him work the next day, a Saturday, as punishment.

On Saturday morning, Aunt Polly sends Tom out to whitewash the fence. Tom does it by, and Tom tries to get him to do some of the whitewashing in return for a "white alley," a kind of marble. Tom almost agrees, but Aunt Polly appears and chases him off, leaving Tom alone with his task.
