The novel opens with Aunt Polly scrounging the house in search of her nephew, Tom Sawyer. She finds him in the closet, discovers that his hands are covered with jam, and prepares to give him a whipping. Tom cries out theatrically, “Look behind you!” and when Aunt Polly turns, Tom escapes over the fence. After Tom is gone, Aunt Polly reflects sadly on Tom’s misdeeds and how she lets him get away with too much.

Tom comes home at supper time. He has a good tale to tell, and how he got away from school on Friday afternoon and went fishing and got soaked in the rain. He adds that he has a fine fish about the size of a gander and brought it home in a tin can. Aunt Polly is satisfied. Tom has avenged the slight he received from his uncle. However, Aunt Polly has not yet forgotten that Tom was skipping school that afternoon, and she makes him go to town and buy bread and shows him that his coffee is still away from the fire. Aunt Polly is still a little bit angry, but Tall Tom’s half brother, Sid, is there to cheer him up.

When Tom gets home in the evening, he finds Aunt Polly waiting for him. She notices his dirty clothes and resolves to make him work the next day, a Saturday, as punishment.

On Saturday morning, Aunt Polly sends Tom out to whiten the fence. Jim passes by, and Tom tries to get him to do some of the whitewashing in return for a “white alms.” A kind of marble Jim almost agrees, but Aunt Polly appears and chases him off, leaving Tom alone with his tasks.
