Tumors Of The Kidney Bladder And Related Urinary Structures
2004 Afip Atlas Of Tumor Pathology 4th Series
The novel opens with Aunt Polly scrounging the house in search of her nephew, Tom Sawyer. She finds him in the closet, discovers that his hands are covered with jam, and prepares to give him a whipping. Tom cries out theatrically, "Look behind you!" and when Aunt Polly turns, Tom escapes over the fence. After Tom is gone, Aunt Polly reflects sadly on Tom's escapades and how she lets him get away with too much.

Tom comes home at suppertime, looking worse for wear. He tells how he missed school that afternoon and how riverboat traders paid him a dollar to carry a trunk to the next town. On the way back, he and his brother got into a fight with a man named Mark. Tom has sworn the boy to secrecy about his adventures. During supper, Aunt Polly tells him how pleased she is with him. She has heard that Tom has skipped school that afternoon and how riverboat traders paid him a dollar to carry a trunk to the next town. Tom goes out of the house to smoke a cigar. Then he returns and starts to clean up. He notices that his clothes are still on and decides to go to bed. Tom and the new arrival by his side chatters away, eventually chattering the newcomer all the way home.

When he returns home in the evening, Tom finds Aunt Polly waiting for him. She notices his dirtied clothes and resolves to make him work the next day, a Saturday, as punishment.

On Saturday morning, Aunt Polly sends Tom out to whitewash the fence. Jim passes by, and Tom tries to get him to do some of the whitewashing in return for a “white alley,” a kind of sandwich. Jim almost agrees, but Aunt Polly appears and chases him off, leaving Tom alone with his tasks.
